

Claude Chidiac, MRes, MSc, ANP, FHEA

Claude Chidiac is a Nurse Consultant in Palliative Care at the Homerton Healthcare NHS Foundation Trust, and Visiting Senior Lecturer at City, University of London. Claude has assumed a variety of academic and clinical roles in acute, hospice, and community settings in the UK and globally. Claude's current work focuses on improving palliative care access and provision for marginalised populations. His PhD research explores how the intersecting social positions of living with dementia and belonging to a gender or sexual minority group may impact on the needs and preferences about the end of life. Claude has been involved in a number of national and international consultations on Inclusive Excellence and reducing inequalities for certain marginalised groups.
